PY.330 (CONDUCTING)

Courses

PY.330.311. Conducting. 1 Credit.
A basic course in orchestral techniques. Offered fall and spring.
Area: P, Y

Designed for the student who desires more intensive study in conducting. Literature will be sequenced with the more difficult works in the Advanced Conducting course. Prerequisite: Basic Conducting or permission of instructor.
Area: P, Y

Designed for the student who desires more intensive study in conducting. Literature will be sequenced with the more difficult works in the Advanced Conducting course. Prerequisite: Basic Conducting or permission of instructor.
Area: P, Y

PY.330.413. Conducting (Advanced). 1 Credit.
Designed for the student who desires more intensive study in conducting. Prerequisite: Intermediate Conducting or permission of the instructor.
Area: P, Y

Designed for the student who desires more intensive study in conducting. Prerequisite: Intermediate Conducting or permission of the instructor.
Area: P, Y

PY.330.845. Conducting Seminar. 4 Credits.
A seminar in all aspects of conducting as a profession, from orchestra management to program making. Videotapes of each week’s rehearsal with the conductor’s orchestra will be discussed. Required of all conducting majors
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Conducting majors only

PY.330.846. Conducting Seminar. 4 Credits.
A seminar in all aspects of conducting as a profession, from orchestra management to program making. Videotapes of each week’s rehearsal with the conductor’s orchestra will be discussed. Required of all conducting majors.
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Conducting majors only

PY.330.849. Wind Conducting Seminar. 1 Credit.
The Graduate Wind Conducting Seminar provides an environment for listening, discussion, analysis, and historical perspectives of wind literature both new and ‘standard.’ It is a lab class, attendance is required.
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Wind Conducting majors only

PY.330.850. Wind Conducting Seminar. 1 Credit.
The Graduate Wind Conducting Seminar provides an environment for listening, discussion, analysis, and historical perspectives of wind literature both new and ‘standard.’ It is a lab class, attendance is required.
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Wind Conducting majors only

PY.330.851. Wind Conducting Seminar (DMA). 1 Credit.
The Graduate Wind Conducting Seminar provides an environment for listening, discussion, analysis, and historical perspectives of wind literature both new and ‘standard.’ It is a lab class, attendance is required.
Prerequisite(s): Graduate Wind Conducting majors only