

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

About the School of Education

Established in 2007, the Johns Hopkins School of Education is a national leader in education reform through research and teaching. Grounded in the Johns Hopkins tradition of research and innovation, the School of Education is ranked among the top colleges of education in the nation by U.S. News & World Report as well as among the top recipients of funded research.

The School of Education offers a rigorous academic environment where candidates can pursue a wide variety of graduate degree and certificate programs, and become experts in elementary and secondary teaching, counseling, administration and supervision, special and gifted education, and education in the health professions. Our candidates represent a wide variety of academic and professional backgrounds, including recent college graduates, professionals from disciplines outside of education seeking a career change, and experienced administrators, counselors, and specialists who want to enhance their skills in the classroom and practice area.

Through an interdisciplinary approach with emphasis on the most challenged urban schools, our programs and applied research have measurably improved the quality of PK-12 education. Our research and policy centers play an integral role in furthering the impact of that approach.
