

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICIES

Academic Integrity Policies

Responsible academic conduct is a central component of graduate and post-doctoral training and is essential to the core values of Johns Hopkins University. Students at The Johns Hopkins University are expected to meet the highest standards of academic excellence and ethical conduct. Each of the divisions of the University maintains an academic integrity policy, and students, faculty, and staff are required to promptly report known or suspected violations of the policy.

The policy for undergraduate students at KSAS and WSE can be found here (http://e-catalog.jhu.edu/undergrad-students/student-life-policies/#Suspected_Violations). The links below detail the specifics of the academic integrity policies that apply to graduate students and postdoctoral trainees for each division at the University. Cases of academic misconduct will be resolved using the policy from the student's division of enrollment.
